

LOW-LEVEL CLOUD CLASSIFICATION AID

START HERE

Learn how to classify low-level clouds (with a base no more than 2 km above the Earth's surface) using this flow chart from the International Cloud Atlas. The name under each image refers to the cloud's genus followed by its species, variety or other feature; the code appears in parentheses. This makes it possible to classify the view of the sky more precisely.

